DESCRIPTORS- *AMERICAN INDIAN LANGUAGES, *BIBLIOGRAPHIES, LANGUAGE CLASSIFICATION, UTO AZTECAN LANGUAGES, NAVAHO, QUECHUA, UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS,

THE 12 BIBLIOGRAPHIES WHICH MAKE UP THIS COLLECTION WERE COMPILED BY MR. TROIKE'S STUDENTS IN A GRADUATE-LEVEL COURSE IN AMERICAN INDIAN LANGUAGES AT THE UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS, 1966-67. LANGUAGE FAMILIES INCLUDED ARE--(1) NA-DENE, (2) NAVAHO, (3) ALGONQUIAN, (4) UTO-AZTECAN, (5) SIOUAN, (6) IROQUIAN, (7) MAYAN, (8) MIXTEC, (9) QUECHUMARAN (QUECHUA-AYMARA), (10) PANOAN, (11) JIVARO, AND (12) TUPI-GUARANI. MOST OF THE BIBLIOGRAPHIES INCLUDE AN INDICATION OF THE MOST IMPORTANT MEMBERS OF THE LANGUAGE FAMILY, AND A LIST OF THE JOURNALS COVERED. A BRIEF INTRODUCTORY SECTION PRESENTS IN OUTLINE FORM THE "VOEGELIN CLASSIFICATION OF AMERICAN INDIAN LANGUAGES NORTH OF MEXICO," AND "NATIVE LANGUAGES OF MEXICO" AND "CENTRAL AND SOUTH AMERICAN INDIAN LANGUAGES" (AFTER SOL TAX, 1960). A BIBLIOGRAPHY OF THE SIOUAN LANGUAGES

The Siouan Languages[*]

Proto-Siouan had already divided into four languages or groups in proto-historic times. We name these proto-historic languages or groups according to the presumable point of dispersal of the daughter languages of each. These last are the modern Siouan languages and our only source of data. In the following, parentheses give important dialects while brackets give recent locations of modern languages.

Proto-Historic Languages:		Modern Languages:
Eastern Siouan		Catawba [South Carolina].
Ohio Valley Siouan		Ofo [Louisiana, Mississippi].
		Biloxi [Louisiana, Mississippi].
		Tutelo [Virginia].
Missouri River Siouan		Hidatsa [North Dakota].
		Crow [Montana, Wyoming].
Mississippi Valley Siouan	(a)	Winnebago [Wisconsin].
		Mandan [North Dakota].
	(b)	Chiwere (Iowa-Oto-Missouri) [Nebraska, Missouri, Iowa].
		Dhegiha (Ponka-Omaha-Kansa-Osage-Quapaw) [Arkansas, Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska].
		Dakota (Santee-Yankton-Teton-Assiniboin) [Wisconsin, Minnesota, the Dakotas, and somewhat west and north].

A Bibliography of the Siouan Languages

Introduction:

This bibliography is an attempt toward a complete bibliography of published materials on the Siouan languages. However, it disregards most of the vast number of word lists, religious materials, and lists of kinship terms. The few word lists in this bibliography are included because of the scarcity of linguistic material concerning certain of the Siouan languages. Should the reader wish to consult further references for linguistic material not included in this bibliography, he is referred to the following:

Introduction

The basis for the establishment of the Quechuaran Family is more intuitive than empirical, and for this reason it has not been universally accepted. This is because very few definitive comparative studies have been done on the two major members, Quechua and Aymara. Such a classification is apparently certain, but it is not "proved".

Quechua was spread thinly over a wide area by the Incas in their leap into power. With the Spanish Conquest it was firmly entrenched and further expanded, due directly to zealous missionaries and indirectly to Colonial policy (especially, mine labor). After a steady decline in the early colonial years, speakers of Quechua slowly began to increase, and by 1940 they numbered an estimated 5 million (Rowe, 1947). This has resulted in a variety of dialects with usually slight dialectal differences.

On the other hand, Aymara has been one of the many victims of the Quechua advances. At the time of the Spanish Conquest it ruled a greater area than Quechua. It has today perhaps 500,000 to one million speakers. The tiny island of Kauki speakers has been seriously studied only recently; it is almost certainly a dialect of Aymara.

There has been little study of the modern Quechua and Aymara dialects and their distribution. The references listed on p.18 are invariably poor. Furthermore, most of the language studies deal simply with "Quechua" or "Aymara" with no concern for dialects. For this bibliography, I have divided the family into 11 dialects (important sub-dialects in parenthesis):

I. Quechua
    1. Argentine (Santiago del Estero)
    2. Bolivian (Cochabamba)
    3. Cuzco (Canas, Chumbivilcas)
    4. Ayacucho (Chanca, Huancayo)
    5. Chinchaysuyu (Ancash, Cajemarca, Junín, Huánuco)
    6. Ucayali (Inga)
    7. Quito (Quijo, Huancavelica)
    8. Canelos (Maina)
    9. Colombia (Inga, Napeño)

II. Aymara
    10. Aymara (Pacasa, Lupaca)
    11. Kauki

The following map is intended only to show the general distribution of these dialects.
